A BRILLIANT CHARITY BALL

THOSE WHO OCCUPIED THE BOXES.

MRS. WILLIAM ASTOR AND ELBRIDGE T. GERRY LEAD THE GRAND MARCH-PROMINENT PEOPLE PRESENT-SOME OF THE

HANDSOME GOWNS. That institution of New-York society which has been observed annually for very nearly thirty years, the Charity Ball, in aid of the Nursery and Child's Hospital, was held last night, and seldom has there been a more brilliant ball in this city. A large fund was needed to complete some of the buildings of the hospital, especially the reception house for infants, and the ladies of the committee have been making extraordinary efforts for the success of the ball, which went far beyond their expectations. Boxes with scarcely an exception sold at a premium, and many, judging from experiences of former years, delayed curing them until the last week, only to find to their chagrin that none were to be had. Consequently yesterday large sums were offered, but to no avail. The committee would cheerfully have accommodated all had there been more boxes. The labors of Mrs. F. N. Goddard, Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock, Mrs. Chester Griswold and Mrs. Kingsland have been well rewarded, and it is likely that the sum of $15,000 was

A Charity Ball is as conservative as a town meeting, and except in the attendance there has been almost no change in the programme for years. Decorations have never been considered necessary. There has always seemed to be nothing more attractive than the double glittering horseshoe of boxes with from four to six women in each, many having on the ledge in front of them rare bouquets. Such was the sight last night. The time-bonored legend "Charity" in gas jets blazed forth from under the proscenium arch, while at the rear of the stage was a drop representing a mediaeval castle, and the dais with seats for the patronesses, over which hung a marquee of buff and white in wide alternate stripes.

As on many occasions, Gilmore's full military band and Bernstein's orchestra were stationed on opposite sides of the first balcony, playing alternately for promenading and dancing. There was scarcely a minute without music. The preliminary concert in-cluded selections by Gilmore's band with the following programme: Overture, "Der Freischuetz," Von Weber; selection, "Les Huguenots," Meyerbeer; grand march, "Charity Ball," Hartmann.

The boxes were held as follows: Parterre-1, W. M. Fliess; 2, Henry Randall; 3, Mrs. Frederick Hunting Howell; 4, Mrs. B. H. Van Auken; 5, H. R. Rogers; 6, Harvey Kennedy; 7, Mrs. Henry B. REHEARSING FOR THEIR CONCERT.

THE METROPOLITAN MUSICAL SOCIETY MAKES A STRONG BID FOR SUCCESS.

Metropolitan Musical Society had a rehearsal yesterday in Chickering Hall from which it was easy to see that the society's concert to-morrow night at Metropolitan Opera House ought to be a success. The society had a full orchestral rehearsal, the orchestra consisting of fifty pieces from the Philharmonic, and the chorus, 200 voices, did gratifying work for a first rehearsal with a large orchestra. A good balance was maintained and the audience often found cause for applause.

The programme includes "Hall! Music, Hail!" from "The Praise of Music," Beethoven; "Judge Me, O God," Mendelssohn; "Samson and Delilah," Saint-Saens, sung by Miss Emily Winant; "Awake ! Awake !" choral from "Die Meistersinger," Wagner; "Sleep, My Flower," Kjerulf; "Matona, Lovely Maiden," madrigal of the sixteenth century, Orlando Lassus; "Legends," Mohring, quartet by Miss Mary S. Bissel, Mrs. I. I. Danforth, Mrs. S. Baron Anderson and Mrs. C. M. Raymond; "A Song of Thanksgiving," Prederick H. Cowen, (first time in America); "Serenade," Flotow, semi-chorus with incidental solos by Miss Bissell, Mrs. Anderson, Charles Herbert Clarke and C. Judson Bushnell, with violin obligate by and C. Judson Bushnell, with violin obligato by Richard Arnold; "Concerto, G minor," Mendelssohn, Richard Hoffman; "Morning Song" (in six parts), Rheinberger, and "Hall: Bright Abode;" march and chorus from "Tambhauser," Wagner.

There will doubtless be a large audience if the weather be good, and the concert is expected to be a success both artistically and socially. The society has issued an attractive programme.

THE SUIT AGAINST MRS. THURBER.

TROUBLE ABOUT A DRAFT-MR. HINKLE TESTI-

FIER IN HIS OWN BEHALF.

The second trial of the suit of A. Howard Hinkle against Mrs. Jeannette M. Thurber began yesterday in the United States Circuit Court before Judge Wallace. The suit grows out of the business troubles of the American Opera Company, of which Mrs. Thurber was the most active official and C. E. Locke was the man-Mr. Hinkle is a wealthy and liberal resident of Cincinnati, and when the American Opera Company gave some representations of grand opera in that city in the fall of 1886 he guaranteed the payment of a proportion of the exponses of the company. On November 26, 1886, Manager Locke spoke to Mr. Hinkle about indorsing a draft for $12,000 on which Mr. Locke wished to raise the money. Mr. Hinkle said that he would do so if Mrs. Thurber made the application and guaranteed the payment. Two or three elegraphie dispatches were sent between Mr. Hinkle, Mr. Locke and Mrs. Thurben

Mr. Hinkle indorsed the draft on November 27, and the money was obtained. The draft was not paid, and Mr. Hinkle sought to make Mrs. Thurber personally liable for the amount. The first trial of the case be fore Judge Coxe a year ago resulted in a disagreement of the jury. Mr. Hinkle was a witness in his own behalf yesterday. Manager Locke was also called as a witness for the complainant and he corroborated the testimony of Mr. Hinkle as to the circumstances surveying the independent of the draft. He said, how. a witness for the complainant and he corroborated the testimony of Mr. Hinkle as to the circumstances surrounding the indorsing of the draft. He said, however, on cross-examination that the telegram from Chicago in which Mrs. Thurber answered "certainly" to an inquiry as to whether she had guaranteed the draft was partly in his handwriting.

The case for the prosecution was finished yesterday, and the defence will open to-day. Ex-dudge Hoadly, of Ohio, was the leading counsel for Mr. Hinkle, and Elihu Root and Mr. Lawrence appeared for Mrs. Thurber.

Board, rooms, household and other help and so other desirable things are advertised on the fou and fifth pages of The Tribune to-day.

TO ATTEND THE INAUGURATION BALL.

From The Baltimore Sun.

A bid for $8,000 hat boxes for use at the ballroom's cloak-room has been invited by Mr. J. E. Bell, chairman of the sub-committee. As every hat is to have its head, this method of polling indicates the probable attendance at the ball.

SENATOR TURPLE WRATHFUL. Washington dispatch to The Chicago News.

I hear that Senator Turple is very indignant at the withdrawal of the nomination of Leon O. Bailer, who was appointed District-Altorney at Indianapolis, and the appointment of Solomon Claypool in his place, and will fight the latter's confirmation. He will not talk for publication, but in the Democratic cloak-room the other day he entertained a number of his party friends by expressing his opinion of the President until it became necessary to open a window to let out the odor of brimstons. GRADUATING A CLASS OF TWENTY-SIX. ANNUAL REPORT OF THE SCHOOL IN CONNEC-TION WITH BELLEVUE HOSPITAL. Two rows of bright-faced young women, in plain, neat dresses, each wearing a white cap and a fragrant bouquet, made the graduating class last night of the Training School for Nurses attached to Bellevue Hos pital. There were twenty-six members of the class, and during the exercises the old yellow house-cat moved anxiously about among the favorite members, as if doubtful of these special proceedings. The reception-room was filled with friends of the school and of the graduates. William H. Osborn presided and read the treasurer's statement.

In the sixteenth annual report of the secretary Mrs. Theodore Cuyler, it was stated that 1,263 appli-cations were made to the school by letter last year, and more than 200 personal applications, but only sixty-four, the full number of the school's capacity could be taken. The graduates now number 320. Three more of the nurses have recently gone to St Paul's Home, in Rome; several have taken positions in Western and Southern hospitals, and there have been more than fifty applications from differen hospitals for nurses of this school to fill responsible positions. Two nurses have gone to China in the last year, and four volunteered their services and did in Jacksonville, Fla., during the recent yellow-fever epidemic. Or. Soliis Mitchell wrote that their trained knowledge had been of the greatest value, and had saved the lives of many fever patients. Six of the graduates are to be placed in the wards of Bellevue to aid in the instruction of the nurses in the new school for training male nurses. It is desired to employ trained nurses in all the wards of Bellevue, but this cannot be done until the school has been enlarged and its maintenance provided for. The financial report for the year shows slight deficit, and the gifts and subscriptions for the year have decreased. The report says in con clusion:

Is this right! Are there not many in this great city o whom our nurses have ministered, either to themselve or to their dear ones, and by their tender care and intelli-gent nursing been the means under God of their restoration to health? These we are confident will be grieved to know that our treasury is emply and will gladly help us not only to continue our present work, but to

The president of the Board of Managers, Mrs. William Preston Griffin, read the names of the grad-uates and awarded them their diplomas. The following are the names of the class; Mrs. Irene W. Moody, Mrs. Ella L. Carroll, Penn.; and Misses Lillian O. Webster, Fannie Warburton, Ida V. Carver, Margaret P. Wright, Nettie J. Perry, Eva L. Stannard Emma B. Thorburn, Estelle Valentine, Alice Autisdale, M. Irene Russell, Fannie E. Buxton, Rosa J. Penney, Cora Chase, Mary G. Moore, Catharine Dunn, Christine C. Hess, Florence M. Smith, Grace Nevins, Gertrude Farmer, Emma G. Vocis, Harriet A. Chichester, Florida Fairbanks, Susan S. Chichester and Mary S.

Thompson. Dr. V. P. Gibney, who made the address to the class, dwelt with emphasis on the valuable work trained nurses might have done in the Civil War. Statistics of the war, he said, give us little idea of the number maimed and crippled for life by the lack of competent nursing, adding:

The cultivation of tact is quite as necessary for the nurs The cultivation of tact is quite as necessary to the mass of or the physician. At all times you must remember that all your energy must be directed to the comfort and recovery of the patient. Your training, of course, has been such that you will at all times recognize the physician in charge as your superior officer, whether he commands your respect or not. In the discharge of your duties, you can command his respect, and by skilful nursing may save a patient even when the physician is incompetent. It may surprise you to learn that in a city so enlightened as Paris a campaign against trained nurses has been begun and that a return to the old system of nursing by Siste of Charity has been strongly advocated. From a leader in a recent number of "The British Medical Journal," I find that M. Depres alleges that the mortality in his hospital service before the Sisters left it was only 1 per cent, while it has risen to 5 per cent since the introduction of trained nurses.

The Rev. Dr. Henry Y. Satterlee pronounced the benediction which closed the exercises. Among those benediction which closed the exercises. Among those present were Mrs. William H. Osborn, Mrs. Theodore Cuyler, C. C. Cuyler, Mrs. E. P. Ferkins, Mrs. Alexander Hamilton, Mrs. James W. Pinchot, Mrs. White-law Reid, Mrs. Henry C. Taylor, John Paton, Mrs. Robert Huntington, Mrs. S. N. Benjaman, Mrs. Custer, Mrs. C. Griswold, Mrs. Lamman Eull, Miss Cunningham, Mrs. J. F. D. Lanier, Mrs. James H. Benedlet, and Miss Rachel E. Sherman, Miss Agnes S. Brennan, superintendent, and Miss Helon M. Warner, assistant of the school.

JOHN LESTER WALLACK'S WILL.

HIS WIFE HAS THE INCOME FOR LIFE OF THE LEASE OF PALMER'S THEATRE.

The will of John Lester Wallack, the famous actor and manager, was filed for probate yesterday with Frobate Clerk Bernard J. Tinney. It is dated February 27, 1888. Mrs. Emily Mary Wallack, the wife of the testator, is appointed executrix, and his son-in-Arthur L. Sewell, is named as executor. Mrs. Wallack is to have the income for life of the lease of Wallack's (now Palmer's) Theatre, at Broadway and Thirtieth-st., executed to Theodore Moss on May 10, 1887, with the exception of $20 a week to be paid to Mrs. Arthur L. Sewell, formerly Miss Florence Wallack, daughter of the testator. At the wife's death the income of the lease is to be divided equally among the testator's children. All his real and personal property is given to the for life, and at her death is to be equally div-among the children.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE BAR ASSOCIATION. The Bar Association held its annual meeting last night at No. 7 West Twenty-ninth-st., and the large number of members present enjoyed a social evening. The fol-lowing officers were elected: President Joseph H. Choate; towing officers with the officer w. Dwight, Albon P. Man, Herbert B. Turner, Hooper C. Van Vorst, Stephen A. Walker; recording secretary, Silas B. Brownell; corresponding secretary, Pavid B. Ogden; tressurer, William P. Dixon. Five membes of the executive committee were also elected and four new members were received, the total membership new being 1,015. Henry R. Beek-man read a memorial on Cadwalader E. Ogden, who died n Bermuda last spring. During the last year $7,775 was expended on the library, which now numbers 33,300 volumes.

DOWN TOWN BUSINESS MEN AT DINNER. A small body of jovial-looking men in evening dress at in the second-floor dining room of the Hoffman House sat in the distance of the Jown-Town Business on. They were members of the Down-Town Business Men's Democratic Association, and selected the anniversary of the battle of New-Orleans for their festive meeting. J. Edward Simmons, President of the Board of Education, presided, and made a speech in which he told his hearers that "Jackson was his beau-ideal of a Democrat." Delano C. Calvin also spoke, but he seen got away from Jackson and violently attacked the Republicans, accusing them of corruption in the late election. "Of course," he said, "the Democrats were not altocether free from blame..." "Oh, no." broke in "Himmy" Oliver, fronteally. "There must be some inistake about that." Everybody shricked with laughter and Mr. Calvin, who was unable to apprelate the fun, grew red in the face, and protested again peing interrupted.
Colonel Richard Lathers delivered a chestnutty address on free trade, and Judge S. M. Erlich closed the speak-ing with another culory on Jackson. Among those who enjoyed the supper which followed were John A. Sullivan. General Le Fevre, Major J. R. McNuity, ex-Senator Cornell, 'ex-Commissioner E. L. Ridgway, Alexander Meakim, Quarantine Commissioner Allen and James J. Phelan.

BUT HOW ABOUT THE DEACON !

From The Chicago Tribune.

"Can you tell me," inquired the anxious-looking man of the bank cashler, "If there is any way of disposing of plugged dekels!"

"Certainty," replied the cashler facetiously. "You can drop them into the contribution box at church. Any deacon will take them. He can't well help himself."

"You sir," said the auxious looking man, "I have self."

"Yes, sir." said the acylous-looking man; "I know that, I'm a church deacon. I have half a bushel of them I would like to dispose of."

When an amendment to senate rules was adopted on Friday last give the President-elect and the Vice-President-elect the dieges of the floor, no reason for adopting the rules was given as no objection was made to it. It is learned now that the reason for changing the rules was be given as no objection was made to it. It is learned now that the reason for changing the rules was be given the Vice-President-elect an opportunity to study the rules of precedure of the Schate, so that he may be familiar with them when he is called upon to take the chair as presiding officer. A member of the Senate went to the president pro tempore, Mr. Ingalis, last week, and asked if Mr. Morton would be admitted to the floor of the Senate in event he came to Washington during this session of Congress. Mr. Ingalis replied that under the rules he would not; that even General Harison would not be admitted to the floor but for the fact that he had been a Senator and thus came under a distinct rule. The Senator stated that Mr. Morton was coming to Washington soon after the meeting of the Electoral College to study the rules of the Senate. MR. MORTON TO STUDY HIS ROLE.

SELECTIONS FROM THE MAIL. SUNDAY WORK FOR TELEGRAPHERS.

To the Editor of The Tribune. Sir: In your Monday's issue you ask why the erican Sabbath Union does not seek to stop the Sunday work of telegraphers as well as postmen. When the telegraph becomes the Nation's fast mail, as I hope it will ere long, out National Sunday Rest law will protect the telegraphers against needless inday work, as it forbids such work wherever the jurisdiction of the Nation extends. Beyond one telegrapher to a city for emergencies, such Sunday work is excusable neither on the ground of mercy nor of necessity. We say, in our argument against Sunday mails, that Saturday telegrams would take the place of emergency letters delivered on Sunday, and Monday telegrams the place of emergency letters mailed on Sunday, and that the stopping of Sunday mails would not, therefore, require any Sunday work of telegraphers. Any telegraphers whose sunday work is under the jurisdiction of Congress, such as those in the Territories and Capital, are protected in their rights to rest on that day by the proposed Sunday Rest bill, which forbids Sunday work, with no exception for telegraphers except as they come under the general exception for works of they come under the general exception for works of necessity and mercy. But most of the telegraphers can be provided with Sunday rest only by State Sunday laws, which would protect most of them now if they were enforced. The enforcement of state Sunday laws the American Sabbath Union leaves to Law and Order Leagues and local Sabbath Associations, taking for its own legislative specialty a National Sunday Rest law, for which petitions are pouring in to the petition superintendent at Washington by every mail, especially from labor organizations. Field Secretary, American Sabbath New-York, Jan. 8, 1889.

ADORATION IN CHURCHES.

To the Editor of The Iribune. Sir: The writer of the "Church Porch" column in your issue of December 30, in his first paragraph. does not take into account that in churches like Trinity, and wherever there is more or less ornate ritual, the adoration or worship of the Almighty is an object sought to be attained. This idea is wrongfully much lost sight of nowadays, except in the Catholic Church and among High Church Anglicans or Episcopalians. The idea has got to be restored. It is not a matter of taste. be restored. It is not a matter of tasks.

means have good, able, moral, edifying preaching and supplication to God for our various wants, but either of these cannot rightly be substituted for the pure adoration of God for Himself alone.

THE MONTANA-MAIN COLLISION.

To the Editor of The Tribune Sir: In your report of the collision of the steamers Montana and Main, we note that you state that both steamers belonged to the Atlantic Transport Please note this was an error. Our steamship Montana was run into by the North German Lloyd steamship Main. The steamship Maine, of the Atlantic Transport Line, is now on the road to Philadelphia from London and Swansea. J. M. BROWN, Manager Atlantic Transport Line. Baltimore, Jan. 7, 1889.

THE BRIDGE CAR SEATS. To the Editor of The Tribune.

Sir: Your correspondents this morning are right. It is an outrage to remove the arms that divide the seats in the Bridge cars. I see that the pernicious example is being followed in some elevated raigroad There should be a law compelling the managers of every railroad to set off individual seats by means of partitions. For drunken men, who cannot sit down straight, provide air-cushions or eiderdown pillows to protect them from harm. Brooklyn, Jan. 8, 1889. J. GRAY.

FUN FOUND AT THE THEATRES. The comic operatia of "The Pearl of Pekin," which was revived at the Bijou Opera House on Monday evening, has been much improved since its first run at that place of amusement. Louis Harrison is now extremely entertaining in his part of the Great Tyfoo, long as it remains at the Bijou.

Roston, is now giving an amusing ent the Fourteenth Street Theatre, in which the most attractive features of variety performances are shown. There is much snap and dash in the several parts of the evening's diversion, and the performers are well received by large houses.

A CIRCUS SOLD AT AUCTION.

Belvidere, N. J., Jan. 8.-The horses, wagons, wild animals and other property of Frank Robbins, the well known circus man, have been sold under the hammer at Frenchtown, the winter quarters. The Frenchtown Union National Bank, as mortgagees, held

THE RUSSIANS AT THE EDEN MUSEE. The Eden Musee provided a unique entertainment for its patrons last night. The Russian singers and dancers sang and danced for the first time since their arrival from St. Petersburg. They were greeted by as many people as could pack themselves in the auditorium, and delighted all by a highly entertaining exhibition of certain phases of pea-ant life in the country of the Great White Crar. The spectator could almost imagine himself at a Russian blank when the little command and a the Russian picnic when the little company appeared on the stage in peasant garb, and sang peasant songs and danced peasant "breakdowns" to the accompaniement of a harmonium played by young Mr. Timofeijeff. The women wore gay slik kerchiefs on their heads, tied in the regulation coun style; blue and white and red and white striped homespur frocks over wide hoopskirts, dark-figured aprons fastened around their waists and over their necks, and coarse leather shoes. The company comprises five men, four women and a boy, and they form a remarkably picturesque

A POSSIBLE PRESIDENT OF MEXICO. Washington dispatch to The St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Washington dispatch to The St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A large-framed, keen-exed man, with a strong face, was conspicuous recently in public places of Washington, accompanied by the Mexican Minister. He was General Mier y Teran. If the constitutional objection to a third term for General Diaz had not been overcome, Teran would, in all probability, be the President of Mexico to-day. But Teran is a close personal friend of Diaz. He believes in a strong Government. He believes ravolutions have been the curse of Mexico. As soon as the movement to reciect Diaz took form, Teran recognized the propriety of if. He stood loyally by his friend and turned a deaf ear to the elements always ready, in the land of the cacius, to plot against the Government. To Teran, perhaps, more than to any other one man, dees Mexico owe the perfect quietness with which the third term has come about through constitutional amendment and election. the third term has come about through constitutional amendment and election.

Teran is a General in the army, but he has also held the office of Governor of two of the most important States of the sister republic.

St. Paul dispatch to The Chicago Herald.

Within the last few days, more frequently than formerly, has the name of Judge John P. Rea, of Minneapolis, ex-Commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, been mentioned in connection with the Universitates, senatorship. He has been regarded by those who view the situation superficially as only one of a number of dark horses, all of whom are ambitions men and willing to be regarded in that light, even if it goes no further. To-day, however, a startling rumor was heard to the effect that Judge Rea's boom bore the marks of the adroit hand of D. M. Sabin, and that he was to be brought out by the latter as a candidate most likely to injure the candidacy of W. D. Washburn. Coupled with this at least plausible statement was the more remarkable one that Senator Sabin had given up the fight.

RUMORS OF SABIN'S WITHDRAWAL.

ENGLISH RAILWAY FOG SIGNALS. From The St. Louis Globe Democrat.

A "fog signal" is about two and a half inches in diameter, half an inch thick, and has two flexible pieces of lead across, which may be bent so as to clasp both sides of the rall. It contains three or four gun caps and perhaps half an ounce of powder. It is piaced beyond the signal, so that the engineer after hearing the "bang" can look up at the signal and see if it is acanet him or not. When the fog signal was first used experimentally much amusement was created by the story of a driver who reported that he had been shot at by a man who, to take aim, had laid himself down on the ballast! Fog signals are now used by the thousand. At one station alone last winter nearly 6,000 fog signals were used.

From The Washington Post.

A lawyer sitting in the Ebbitt House last night said:

"I have been reading in The New-York Tribune accounts of the bright things said by members of the New-York bar. They are mighty good, but I don't think any of them can compare with the flashes of wit gotten off by Governor Hoadly, who is himself now a New-York lawyer.

a distinct rule. The Senator stated that Mr. Morton was coming to Washington soon after the meeting of the Electoral College to smids the rules of the Senator, in order that he roight assume the char of the presiding officer with stine degree of condidence. Mr. Ingals said the only way to obtain admittance to the door for Mr. Morton would be to change the rule. In accordance with the suggestion the proposition was laid.

TALK OF THE CONTINENT.

THE MORIER INCIDENT THE MAIN TOPIC OF DISCUSSION.

THE DISASTER IN SAMOA DISCUSSED IN GER-MANY-THE CZAR'S ASSURANCES OF PEACE. Berlin, Jan. 8.-The partial withdrawal of the charges against Sir R. D. Morier by "The Post," in accordance with the promise of Count Herbert Bis-march, is far from ending the incident. The result of Lord Salisbury's remonstrances in connection with the Morier affair will probably appear shortly. Government organs evince an uneasy desire to dis-entangle themselves from the affair. Captain Knesebeck, Cabinet Councillor of the ex-Empress Augusta, recently wrote to Councillor Rottenburg, requesting that the Chancellor might cause a suitable denial to be given to the statement that the late Herr Brandis, Augusta's Councillor in 1870, imparted to Morier at Darmstadt the contents of secret dispatches from the Prussian headquarters during the presence of the

Empress at Hamburg. Captain Knesebeck states that Her Majesty received no such secret military news. While the Liberal newspapers are rejoicing over what they call a Bismarckian blunder, they do not fail to censure Morier for his want of decorum in sending a heated letter directly to Count Herbert Bis marck, instead of communicating in the usual manner through Sir Edward Malet, the British Ambassador. Sir Robert doubtless desired, if possible, to avoid entangling the English Government in the affair, but therein he made a mistake, retarding the reparation that might otherwise have been readily given. The charge of forgery has collapsed utterly. Statements that have come from several quarters prove that Bazaine do tested writing and was habitually ungrammatical, while the fact that the French papers printed a correct version is easily explained, the latter having telegraphed in English and retranslated for the French

The disaster in Samoa has created a deep impres-The disaster in Samoa has created a deep impression. The "Kieler Zeitung" states the Samoan losses are the greatest, in officers and men, that the German navy ever experienced in a transoceanic expedition. The "National Zeitung" complains that America's recalling her Consul, some time ago, did no good, for it has been proved that the natives were led from an ambuscade by an American.

Vienna, Jan. 8.—It is rumored that M. Zouyleft, the Russian military attache, has been authorized by the Czar to give the most definite assurance of his pacific intentions to Emperor Francis Joseph.

OBITUARY. DR. THOMAS BRIAN GUNNING.

Dr. Thomas Brian Gunning, a well-known dentist of this city, died on Tuesday at his home, No. 42 Stuy-vesant Place, New-Brighton, Staten Island, in his geventy-sixth year. He was born in London, England, but came to this country at an early age and began the study of dentistry in 1840 in the office of John Bundell, one of the most famous dental surgeons of that time. His experience in this office coupled with his natural inventive genius, soon placed him in a high position in the profession. In 1801 he introduced the hard-rubber interdental splints for the treatment of fractured jaws.

In April, 1865, Dr. Gunning was called to Washington, at the suggestion of Surgeon B. F. Bache, Director of the United States Laboratory, to attend William H. Seward, then Secretary of State, who had sustained a double fracture of the jaw by being thrown from his carriac the case being further complicated by the attempted as sassination. Dr. Gunning enabled Mr. Seward to attena Cabinet meeting the day after a splint was applied.
Dr. Gunning was one of a commission to select the medical instruments to be sent to the Taris Exposition of 1867. In the Centennial Exposition of 1870 Dr. Gunning's exhibits explained his peculiar modes of treatment. completely, showing what was required for every de-

In 1867 he published a pamphlet on the "Physiological Action of the Muscles Concerned in the Movement of the Lower Jaw," in 1874 a pamphlet on "The Laryax, the Source of Vocal Sounds," and in 1878 on "Hard Rubber Appliances for Congenital Cleft Paiate." He retired from practice three years ago. He leaves two sons and one daughter. The funeral will take place at his home to-morrow at 12:30.

VIRGIL W. PARKER. Virgil W. Parker died at his home, No. 65 Columbia st., Newark, on Monday, age seventy-two, after a pro-tracted sickness. Mr. Parker was born at Albany, his father being a member of the Legislature. His brother, extremely entertaining in his part of the Great Tyfoo, and his songs, dances and saliles of humor were repeatedly and enthusiastically applauded. Miss Thorne, of California, who now takes the part of the Pearl, also made a favorable impression. The piece is produced with handsome setting, scenery with the firm of Andrach & Co. feather during the firm of Andrach & Co. feather during parts of the Legislature. His brother, Lucius Parker, was a bishop of the Methodist Episcopai Church until his death, a few years ago. Virgil Parker went to Now-Orleans early in life, and was in the dry-goods business until 1863, when his health gave way. He came North, and in 1866 made his home in Newark. Of late years Mr. Parker had been engaged as a salesman with the firm of Andrach & Co. feather during the product of the Methodist Episcopai Church until his death, a few years ago. There is no fixed canon of beauty. Sometimes oddity and quaintness are beauty, just as a tramp is beauty in a painting on a parior wall, though he would be hideous in standing on the parior floor. For the beauty of oddity here is a little porcelain article—a reproduction of a Duich exceamer for the table; it is a cow, the cream being poured in through a small door in her back and poured out through her mouth. A small charlot or palanquin with horses, footmen, and all to match, done in Dresde. ware, is another illustration of beauty in quaintness For another sort of beauty, here is a mantel clock of marble and glided brass carving, two glided carvatides supporting at the sides, and two dark griffins standing on top; the pendulum ball is a glit sun. Still a different sort of beauty is shown in a cabinet of plate-glass front and mahogany, decorated with gilded brass carvings, having also a panel painting in colors (a mythological su feet), enamelled on the wood and done in the celebrated Vernis Martin finish. These may be seen at the "Old Curlosity Shop," which was once Marley's, but is now Sypher & Co.'s, Broadway and Seventeenth-st., together with an aimost endless and ever-changing variety of works in antique cabinetmaking, as well as many faithful reproductions, and tapestries, percelains, and curios. The goods are not all costly, and baryains are offered daily.
